'WE ARE A FAMILY'

Hope Manor Joliet provides community for homeless vets

By Nick Reiher

For some veterans, "coming home" hasn't always been a good thing, especially when there is no home to come to.

Whether it's due to chronic illness, loss of a job or a combination of ills, veterans who have fought for the country too often find themselves bouncing from shelter to shelter, agency to agency, in hopes of finding permanent housing. In the worst cases, they'll have their spouses and young children with them.

That was the case for Dina Guinn, a veteran whose husband of 20-some years -- a Stateville correctional officer -- was diagnosed in 2015 with Parkinson's disease. He was unable to work, and needing to care for her husband and three teenagers, her employment options were limited. Ultimately, they spent six months at MorningStar Mission in Joliet.

"I lost my job, I couldn't support my family, my husband was sick," Guinn said.

But then she got a call earlier this year that she and her family would be among the first residents of a new, 67-unit housing complex on the campus of the former Silver Cross Hospital in Joliet, built exclusively to provide housing for homeless veterans and their families.

Getting that call, Guinn said, "was amazing ... We have a place."

Guinn shared her story at the Aug. 25 dedication of Hope Manor Joliet, the third such housing complex for homeless veterans built since 2012 through the Volunteers of America with local, state and national funding.

Hope Manor Joliet, a $20 million public-private partnership, provides 67 living units for veterans who had been homeless and their families on part of the former Silver Cross Hospital campus in Joliet.

Operating revenue will be provided by the Housing Authority of Joliet, the Regional Housing Initiative, the Chicago Housing Authority and the Department of Veterans Affairs.

"We are here today to celebrate a new community, a new place to call home for some very, very, very special people," said Nancy Hughes Moyer, President and CEO of VOA of Illinois.

"A place for generations to come, is going to welcome home men and women who have bravely served in our Armed Services and will provide them an amazing place to live and raise their families as they pursue the American Dream they fought so hard to preserve for the rest of us."

As impressive as the $20 million, three-story, red brick housing complex is, it nearly didn't happen. The group proposed the plan several years ago, but the city rejected it due to concerns about density and parking. Moyer credited Joliet Mayor Bob O'Dekirk and the City Council for not allowing the plan to die.

In his remarks, O'Dekirk admitted there were "a lot of bumps in the road." But in the end, with everyone's cooperation, they were able to get it done.

O'Dekirk also welcomed the 67 Hope Manor families

Water Summit to Focus on Dwindling Supply

A Water Summit focusing on the decreasing supply of high-quality water in Northeastern Illinois is slated for 6:30 p.m., Thursday, Sept. 14, at the offices of the Will County Soil & Water Conservation District, 1201 S. Gougar Road, New Lenox.

Aquifers, the underground reservoirs that supply the region with fresh water, are drawing down at an alarming rate. Walt Kelly, head of the Groundwater Section of the Illinois State Water Survey, identifies the urgency with which the region is faced.

"The sandstone aquifers that provide drinking water to many communities and industries in southern and western suburbs of Chicago are declining rapidly," he said.

Earlier this year, officials with the Illinois State Water Survey told Will County officials the aquifer that supplies northwestern and western Will County and Kendall County could run dry by 2050 if use habits don't change -- sooner if there is another boom in housing or industrial development.

Northern Illinois accounts for about 70 million gallons of water use daily, they said, while only 14.7 million gallons recharge daily.

Water levels in the local aquifer have dropped over 900 feet in recent years, one of the largest such drops in the United States. That means those needing wells

All in All, a ‘Great Day’ in the Books

Shortly before 1 p.m. Aug. 21, the subdued crowd around a shelter at McKinley Woods in Channahon let out a whoop and started crowding together as though they were baby chicks huddling toward a light bulb for warmth.

They had their eyes toward a mostly cloudy sky, shielded by NASA-approved glasses, 75 pairs given out by the hosts of the event, the Forest Preserve District of Will County. Thousands of others throughout the area were doing the same around the same time.

Millions across the United States had done or would be doing the same that day to catch a protected glimpse, and maybe even a picture, of the last total, or mostly total solar eclipse across the United States for nearly 100 years. Thousands traveled to Carbondale or parts of Missouri, the northern-most points around here to see “totality.”

Many just decided to stay put and accept 89 percent totality. But for a while Aug. 21, it looked like they would be more in danger of getting a face full of rain staring up at the sky instead of permanent eye damage we were warned about constantly should we look at the eclipse without any NASA-approved glasses.

Or a pin-hole box “camera.” I thought back to my childhood when scare ads were fairly prevalent on TV. Forget about looking at the eclipse; I hid every time the commercial about the eclipse and the dangers of viewing it came on.

That was 1963, I learned after some research. And do you know what they were telling us to do instead of frying our retinas? Make a pin-hole box camera. Seriously? Fifty-four years later, and they’re still pitching the pin-hole box camera?

But I guess when solar eclipses come around our area only every several dozen years or so, there’s no need to fire up production of something more fancy.

Waiting in line for one of the NASA-approved glasses the Forest Preserve District was giving out, Dawn Fraser of Channahon said she was confident the sun would come out in time to go behind the moon for a few minutes.

“I found a penny this morning,” she said, smiling at the good luck bound to happen. She had pulled her daughter, Bella, 9, out of Minooka Intermediate School for the day to view the phenomenon.

“They’re not doing anything today anyway,” she said, noting they got in line about 9:45, more than an hour and a half before the program, to make sure they got glasses.

They weren’t the first in line. Cindy and Gary Murley of Minooka pitched their folding chairs at 8 a.m., even before the Forest Preserve officials knew where the head of the line would be.

“I was 7, and I didn’t have a clue,” when that eclipse spun over the area in 1963, Cindy said. “I’m not going to miss it this time. ... We were the first ones (here) for over an hour. We didn’t know if there would be three people or 300.”

Somewhere in the middle turned up, maybe 120 or so. The first 75 got their glasses before the 11:30 a.m. start of the program, just in case it started raining.

Then, it was wait. Kids played in the interactive displays the Forest Preserve District smartly set up. People of all ages scanned their smart phones, walked around, and scanned some more. They checked radar on the phones to see if the rain would stay away. It didn’t look good, and the few drops falling punctuated that feeling.

“Let’s go home,” one youngster said. “The sun’s gone.”

But, no, we were all in for Dawn’s penny, hoping for a pound of good fortune. At 12:45, those in the crowd fumbled with their glasses, as the sun poked out a bit. Was that a shadow forming against Old Sol, or just a cloud looming?

For the next half hour, the increasingly blotted sun poked in and out, teasing all of us, until just around 1:20, right about that 89 percent totality mark, it shone pretty strong through the clouds, letting photographer and friend John Patsch snap a bunch of photos a few seconds at a time, so as not to burn up the camera ... and his eyes. (See Page 20 for his great work).

The sun did this Sally Rand fan dance for a few more minutes, each time eliciting a roar when the crowd saw something.

Dawn Fraser was happy with what she got to see for a penny. Daughter Bella proclaimed it “pretty cool.”

All in all, a success.

Responses varied depending on where, and who you were. Weatherman superstar Tom Skilling had an amazing response. If you haven’t seen it, go to social media or You Tube.

‘Not a Moral Failing’

Experts say understanding key to curbing opioid crisis

By Pat Schager

Part of the solution in dealing with opioid abuse and addiction is realizing it is a medical condition, not a moral failing, said U.S. Rep. Bill Foster, who hosted a panel of experts to discuss the issue Aug. 23 in the Will County Board Room.

Three doctors in the fields of neurology, medicine and substance use spoke to a diverse group of medical professionals, political officials, community leaders and interested citizens on the effects of substance abuse and addiction.

In his opening remarks, Foster, D-Naperville, said he is “proud of Will County for being a leader on (addressing) this problem. Drug addiction should not be viewed as a moral failing, it is treatable, and we have the science to understand the ‘how’ of treatment.”

That doesn’t mean dealing with the crisis is easy, said Dr. Kathleen Burke, Director of Substance Abuse Use for Will County. Addiction is a relapse disease, where the brain is in a “have to have” mode, and the need doesn’t go away, she said.

“It’s a medical disease, and there are no cookie-cutter treatments,” she said. “I want everyone to stop using the word ‘addict;’ it’s

Burke reported that there have been 34 drug-related deaths to date this year in Will County. “In 2016, Illinois had 1,887 opioid deaths, with the highest counts in Joliet, Romeoville, Lockport and Bolingbrook.”

To help address these deaths, Will County five years ago began a federal grant-funded program, including an annual “Hero HELPS” program to offer resources to families going through ordeals with heroin and other opioids, and, more recently, hiring Burke to go to establish information programs in the areas with high opioid problems.

Burke also has helped train law enforcement officials in the county how to administer Naloxone, also known as Narcan, a nasal spray antidote that blocks the effects of opioids. It works within one to three minutes and can last from 30 to 90 minutes.

Every police department in the county is stocked with the antidote, and the county is expanding assisted medical treatment with methadone, suboxone and Vivitrol to help curb opioid cravings. Narcan can be purchased at pharmacies without a doctor’s prescription.

Burke said there is a need in Will County to access detox units. “We don’t have any at this time, but are working on it,” she said. “Our strategic plan includes drug disposal sites, specialty court programs, physician education, school and community education and expansion of the medical assistance treatment program.”

She also said doctors and patients can help stem future opioid addictions.

“From personal experience, I was offered Vicodone (an opioid) after a procedure, but refused to take it,” she said. “You are in charge of your health and can ask for lower level drugs over an opioid.”

“As a doctor, I am concerned with how to define and manage a patient who comes to me with pain,” said Dr. Jennifer Byrd, Medical Director of Will County Community Health Center.

Byrd spoke of different ways a doctor has to effectively treat pain. There are combinations of opioids and non-steroidal anti-inflammatory drugs that must be considered along with potency dosage for individuals.

“If prescribing opioids, we must prescribe for short term-long term treatment, see the patient again within one to four weeks to re-evaluate pain (management) and start treatment with the smallest effective dosages,” she said.

Patients are becoming more aware of addictive drugs and are asking for other non-narcotic prescriptions Byrd said.

There is a statewide physician database doctors are able to access and input information on who is being prescribed an opioid and in what amounts. Red flag warning signs of addicted patients include early refill requests and doctor shopping. At this time, hospitals do not have access to the database because of incompatible computer software, Burke said.

Limiting the dosages of prescription opioids is critical not only for the patient, but for others who may come in contact with the drugs in home medicine cabinets. Teens are especially susceptible to becoming physically dependent on opioids.

Dr. Alex Vargas, Assistant Professor of Neurology for Rush University Medical Center in Chicago, spoke of the effects of opioids on the adolescent brain. “This is a key time in adolescence. Adolescents are impulsive, risk-takers, and it is a time of pushing limits of parental control,” he said.

Opioids act so fast and act like dopamine in the part of the rewards center of the brain. This effect can “hijack” the brain, causing the user to try to duplicate the effect with each use.

“The need is two to 10 times stronger than the need for food or sex and alter the need to seek that high,” he said. “Opioids are meant for short-term use only.”

Burke appreciated Foster, a PHD scientist, and the only physicist in Congress, putting the forum together.

“He takes it seriously,” she said. “He gets it.”

County Auctioning 350 Properties

Will County, as Trustee, has completed its tax deed proceedings on properties that were delinquent for 2013 and prior real estate taxes.

Will County, as Trustee, now will offer for sale approximately 350 properties at a public auction in the St. George Social Center, 310 Stryker Avenue, Joliet, Illinois at 6:00 p.m. on Monday, September 18, 2107.

Bidding will start at $600.00 per item. Bidders are encouraged to attend the auction sale. While written bids are acceptable, the Auction Department of the Will County Tax Agent’s Office, P.O.

Box 96, Edwardsville, Illinois 62025, must receive them by 5:00 p.m. on Monday, September 11, 2017.

The highest written bid received will be announced before the auctioneer opens the oral bidding. Each item will sell to the highest bidder.

The sale of these lots should be a major benefit to both Will County and neighboring property owners. This sale will place the properties into the hands of individuals who have an interest in owning them. Will County, as Trustee, hopes that these new owners will both maintain the property and keep the real estate taxes paid. By eliminating abandoned properties, the appearance of the neighborhoods should improve and the value of adjoining properties should increase.

Sale catalogs are now available for purchase (cash or money order) at the Will County Treasurer’s office in the Will County Office Building at 302 North Chicago Street, Joliet, Illinois, Monday through Friday, 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. or online at www.iltaxsale.com. For further sale information, contact the Auction Sale Department of the Will County Tax Agent’s Office at 1-800-248-2850 or 618-656-5744, or visit us at www.iltaxsale.com.

SWCD Sets Cover Crop Field Day Sept. 19

The Will-South Cook Soil & Water Conservation District (SWCD) will host a cover crop field day in Will County at 1 p.m. Tuesday, Sept. 19. The event is free and open to the public.

Attendees are invited to view the latest results of several Will County Farmers who employ the use of cover crops to improve soil health, water quality and farm productivity.

There will be five different farm stops intended to educate both the general public and specific agricultural audiences on the benefits of using cover crops to improve soil and water quality and to improve crop yields.

Visits to the Kestel, Haas, Baskerville, Johnson and Lange farms are planned. Attendees will meet at the district office where the tour will commence at 1 p.m.

To register for the field day, please contact Kim Mitchell at (815) 462-3106, ext. 3, or at kim.mitchell@will-scookswcd.org.

Young Farmers Committee & First Bank of Manhattan to Sponsor Market Outlook Program September 7th

The First Bank of Manhattan and the Will County Young Farmers continue to be committed to providing marketing information to the farming community and they have invited Jeff Beal of the Gulke Group to update you on the market conditions in 2017 on Thursday, September 7th.

Please join us on September 7 at 7: 00 P.M.

in the Community Room at First Bank of Manhattan Bank located at 550 W North Street, Manhattan.

Jeff Beal is a market analyst with the Gulke Group and makes presentations nationwide. He is a featured Ag Analyst on Ag radio in Illinois and Iowa and writes a column for the Executive Marketing publication. Jeff’s goal is: “to help producers around the US better understand how to use the available marketing and financial tools to improve their year over year gross income on their farm operations.”

The program will last about an hour and will be a good investment of your time.

No Reservations are needed. Please SAVE THE DATE and bring your spouse or neighbor.

Circuit Clerk’s Ninth Annual ‘Take Back the Night’ Fundraiser Set

The Will County Circuit Clerk’s Office will be sponsoring a fundraiser from 5 to 9 p.m. Sept., at Chicago Street Bar & Grill, Joliet.

Over the past nine years, the Will County Circuit Clerk’s Office has made a promise to our community to stand up against domestic violence, raising over $35,000 by sponsoring an annual event to raise money and awareness for victims.

“If you, a loved one or someone you know is suffering at the hands of an abuser, please know you are not alone, there are multiple agencies here to help,” said Circuit Clerk Andrea Lynn Chasteen.

OUTSTANDING IN THEIR FIELD

By John Kiefner

Just like that, summer is over. For many, it is when school is back in session. For some, it is September 22nd, others use the three-day Labor Day Holiday, and for meteorologists, it is September 1. For many in Will County, it is when the Will County Fair is over. Let's get summer over so the mosquitoes can go away.

Despite a very cold and wet May, summer in Will County seems to have been rather uneventful weather-wise. Not particularly cold or hot, not excessively wet or dry. There were periods of all extremes at times, just enough to keep the year interesting. I have not consulted with the state's climatologist, Dr. Jim Angel, to see if my statements are fact. These are my windshield observations.

After each month and season, Dr. Angel will give a synopsis of the weather happenings around the state. His reports usually make the newswire as filler news stories, but they do not make farmers groan near as much as the recent United States Department of Agriculture (USDA) crop report did.

When the USDA released its July crop report, it shocked traders and farmers alike. The report stated that farmers would harvest some very respectable corn and soybean yields as a whole across the United States. The grain markets reacted instantly with huge one-day losses that are still continuing for the corn market. The report on bushels produced did not align with the crop conditions that many farmers seemed to witness in their own vicinities.

With summer ending and the Will County Fair passing without another common deluge of heavy rain during its run, farmers will hope for more warm and dry weather to help crops mature and dry in the field. There were many acres of corn planted and re-planted in mid- to late-May, and these crops will welcome warmth and sunshine to advance them to maturity.

While some farmers may trek into the fields to make estimates about their upcoming yields, I prefer it to be a surprise. Every year is about the same. I tend to harvest my most productive farms first and then move onto more marginal fields. That means harvest starts on a high note, and the year just keeps getting worse as it goes along. Sounds a lot like the Chicago White Sox season. Hey, that's my team!

Anyhow, my summer season of giving farm tours and hayrack rides will end on September 13. That is the day of the Will County Corn and Soybean Plot Day on my farm. We have lined up several guests to speak on various topics of interest about farming. Speakers on the agronomy topics begin at 3. Surprisingly, or maybe not surprisingly at all, the crowd always swells when the meal is served. You are welcome either way.

I hope to see you there, weather permitting. I will try to come up with some new, clean jokes. We can all enjoy a pork chop or two. That is, until the mosquitoes, rain, or darkness chases us away.

If you have any questions or comments, send them to kiefnerfarms@att.net.

Will County Corn and Soybean Growers Field Day/Agronomy Day Sept. 13

The Will County Farm Bureau Corn Growers and Soybean Growers Committee have scheduled their annual corn and soybean field yield demonstration day for Wednesday, Sept. 13, along with an agronomy presentation program beginning at 3 p.m.

The program will be held at Kiefner Farms, 25545 S. Cedar Road, Manhattan (on the east side of Manhattan).

The program is open to Will County Farm Bureau members, Will County Soybean Growers Association and Will County Corn Growers Association members only. The day's events will begin at the tent location at 3-4:30 p.m. with various speakers on an agronomy topics. Speakers and topics will include:

□ Larry Hermann, qualified local and independent agronomist will talk about dicamba issues and their impact on area farmers;

□ Doug Yoder, crop insurance specialist from Country Financial, will talk about the farm bill and crop insurance as it relates to this year;

□ Russ Higgins, U of I Extension educator with Grundy County Extension Office, will talk about yield potential of the 2017 crop with regards to weather, disease, insects and fertility;

□ Jim Iserman will display a rainfall simulator by the soil health partnership and demonstrate the affects of soil residue in different cropping systems.

A pork chop supper, compliments of the seed corn/soybean companies and the committees will be served at the plot sit tent from 5:15 – 6:30 p.m. There will be plenty of parking and a shuttle available to take you around to view the corn and soybean varieties. Door prizes will be awarded following the short meeting after supper has been served.

Previous field days have been at the farms operated by the following people: Gary Fritz, Alan and Larry Christiansen, Chuck Weber, Bruce Clover, Ken Krapf, Bob Hintzche, Dan Ward, Walsh Farms, George Beutel, Jim Robbins, Lewis/Bleuer Farms, Glenn Ginder and of course, Kiefner Farms.

Any Will County Farm Bureau members involved in production agriculture and all Will County Corn or Soybean Growers Assn. members are invited to attend the field day to help make it another success.

NO RESERVATIONS ARE REQUIRED TO ATTEND! There will be no rain date for the event this year in case of inclement weather.

Water Summit to Focus on

have to spend more to dig even farther – typically 1,500 to 2,000 feet down – to get the supply they need ... for now.

Kelly will present the latest information about the water drawdown, including information about the study of the deep wells at the former Joliet Army Ammunition Plant that are providing a daily record of water drawdown dating back to World War II.

“There are alternative water resources in the region, but it is imperative for at-risk entities to start planning now,” Kelly said.

It is a situation of concern to many, including area farmers. Even though Will County has seen significant growth and development, about 45 percent of its 540,000 acres is farmed, said Mark Schneidewind,

Will County Farm Bureau Manager.

Jim Robbins farms the same land in Manhattan Township where his family has farmed since 1851. Today, that township and many in northeastern Illinois face a crisis. As chair of the Will-South Cook Soil & Water Conservation District, Robbins sees the impact.

“Without water, what would we do as farmers? “Water quality and quantity is an absolute necessity to grow crops; thus, water is the lifeblood of agriculture,” Robbins said.

Neil Pellmann, Resource Conservationist for the Will-South Cook Soil & Water Conservation District, will present information on the urban and agriculture conservation programs available through the WSCD.

“The need to understand better how development of one water resource affects the other is universal and will surely increase as development intensifies.” according to the United States Geological Survey publication, “Ground Water and Surface Water A Single Resource.”

The Water Summit is sponsored by the Will County Environmental Network and the Will-South Cook Soil & Water District. For additional information, interested persons may phone the Soil & Water District Office at 815-462-3106, ext. 3. Reservations are encouraged, but not required.

“The goal is to learn more about the water supply and to explore the steps that residents, government officials, and water scientists can take to improve the long-range forecast,” Mary Baskerville of the Will County Environmental Network said. “All interested person are invited and encouraged to attend and learn about the challenges facing the region now and in the near future.”

Wieners Roasts Evolve, Still a Fall-time Farm Favorite

During the wiener roasts of my childhood, Dad piled logs bigger than fence posts in the barnyard. With empty feed sacks, a lighter, and about three hours to burn down, he created a fire large enough for a 4-H crowd to roast hot dogs and marshmallows. We cooked with hand-whittled willow sticks about 8 to 10 feet long. Anything shorter in distance to the burning log pile felt like an encounter with the sun.

This month, I watched my cousin rotisserie-roast his marshmallows with a manufactured roasting rod over the portable fire pit outside our family’s farm shop. Camping chairs replace straw bale seating from the barn loft. Short, re-usable metal roasting sticks spare the hour-plus of cutting and whittling willows. We can adjust the fire on wheels if the wind shifts. And we literally can put a lid on it when the fun is done. The modern conveniences mean we can experience wiener roasts more often, sometimes impromptu. For those moments, I always keep s’more supplies in my pantry’s inventory.

Over the years, wiener roasts have threaded through our farm lives: A wiener roast meal for birthday parties at our farm or an uncle’s farm. Fourth of July parties sometimes gathered around a fire at my grandparents’ farmstead. The Sunday School director occasionally hosts wiener roasts at her farm. And nearly 20 years ago, my husband and I held our first-ever conversation fireside at a local conservation club campground.

The time outdoors, the memories, casual atmosphere and food lure me to wiener roasts. I can park the lawn mower, throw on an old sweatshirt and attend a roast with grass clippings in my hair because I will leave smelling like smoke anyway. I love the ambiance, relaxation, and the opportunity to enjoy my aunt’s home-made zucchini relish on a hot dog. Then, I indulge in s’mores, one of my favorite desserts.

Our son made a “s’more tray” this year for his first 4-H woodworking project. The hand-made oak tray holds my canisters of marshmallows, pre-snapped graham crackers and quarters of Hershey bars. We’ll certainly use the blue-ribbon project for our 4-H club’s upcoming kickoff meeting and wiener roast, hosted at our farm. Our 4-H leader will start the event with a safety speech, a tradition for more than 45 years. He explains that the club’s fireside rules originated during a time when kids carried sharpened willows double their height. The modern-day metal sticks still deserve some common sense reminders, and the parents nod in remembrance of something their kids will know as well as a rotary phone.

About the author: Joanie’s family grows corn, soybeans and hay and raises beef cattle in West-Central Illinois. She is a wife and mother of two farm kids who cheer for wiener roasts.

Practice Farm Safety

National Farm Safety & Health Week is Sept. 17 through the 23rd, and with that comes a reminder to “Put Farm Safety into Practice.”

Illinois Farm Bureau offers this suggestion to help you stay “FARM SAFE.” Conduct a “Farm Safety Check” each month to identify and fix potential hazards -- before they cause harm to your employees, family, and your bottom line.

Some things to think about ...

- Are your chemicals stored correctly?
- Are your farm buildings free from clutter?
- Do you follow proper grain handling techniques?

Make farm safety a year-round practice.

Scholarships/Grants

Will County Women’s Bar Association Scholarship

The Will County Women’s Bar Association will award one deserving law student a scholarship this year, helping o defer the high costs of pursuing their law degree.

The scholarship will be a one-time $500 cash payment and also includes a waiver of membership dues into the WCWBA for the first two years after admission to the Bar.

To be eligible for the scholarship, the student must have completed at least one semester of law school with a GPA of 2.5 out of 4.0 or above. The applicant must reside, work, or participate in an intern/extern program in Will County, Illinois.

Interested students should provide a copy of their resume, including their GPA. The student should also complete a maximum one-page essay, summarizing why they want to be an attorney and be considered for the scholarship.

The deadline is Oct. 1, 2017. Allapplications should be submitted to: Susan O’Leary, Circuit Judge, 57 N. Ottawa St., Room 227, Joliet, IL 60432.

Country Financial Donates $100,000 to Illinois Ag In The Classroom

The Illinois Agriculture in the Classroom (IAITC) program will continue to provide free education resources and grants to teachers across Illinois thanks to $100,000 in financial support from COUNTRY Financial®.

During activities at the Farm Progress Show, Lindsey Rinkenberger, Agribusiness Director, COUNTRY Financial, was recognized by representatives of the IAA Foundation and IAITC as COUNTRY Financial continued its long-standing position as top industry contributor to IAITC.

"Early learning about farming leaves a lasting impression on children," said Rinkenberger. "It helps them build an understanding they'll hold onto for the rest of their lives. Our heritage is rooted in agriculture and our organization has long supported Illinois Agriculture in the Classroom. We care because we know Ag learning helps students appreciate how farmers feed our world."

Funds provided by COUNTRY Financial and other donors directly support local Ag literacy efforts across the state of Illinois, including grants to classrooms and teachers, ensuring IAITC resources are available to schools at no cost.

Last year, nearly 650,000 students and more than 37,500 teachers benefitted from new learning experiences that incorporate agriculture into their daily classroom lessons.

"Each year, IAITC looks for new ways to connect students to topics that are meaningful to their education, and relevant to agriculture," said Kevin Daugherty, education director, IAITC. "AITC helps provide local connections to not only food and fiber, but also career links in traditional and emerging career areas of agriculture. Where better to receive this gift to help support agricultural literacy than at the Farm Progress Show, where we are surrounded by the newest trends in agriculture."

"As the new school year begins, the IAA Foundation is one step closer to its goal of providing a fully funded year for Ag in the Classroom, said Susan Moore, director, IAA Foundation. "We are beyond thankful for the support of COUNTRY Financial and COUNTRY Financial Representatives throughout Illinois and beyond."

Illinois Corn Checkoff Donates $90,000 to IAITC

The Illinois Agriculture in the Classroom (IAITC) program will continue to provide free education resources and grants to teachers across Illinois thanks to $90,000 in financial support from the Illinois Corn Checkoff program. The program is administered by the Illinois Corn Marketing Board.

Today, representatives from Illinois Corn Marketing Board (ICMB) presented a check to IAITC to support the upcoming school year. ICMB continues its long-standing position as the top commodity contributor to IAITC with this donation.

Illinois Corn Checkoff program dollars will directly support 74 Illinois county ag literacy coalitions. Funds help provide free resources to local teachers and educators to use throughout the school year. Lesson plans and materials connect agriculture through common subjects such as language arts, math, science, and social studies. Last year, the IAITC program reached nearly 650,000 students and more than 37,500 teachers.

"The Illinois Corn Marketing Board values our long-standing relationship with the local, county-based ag literacy programs that provide such a valuable educational service to youth across the state," said Jim Raben, immediate past-chairman, IMCB. "We are definitely supporters of youth education, and we're pleased to put financial resources in the hands of people that are the boots on the ground in this effort."

Ag Mags, four-page agricultural magazines for kids, continue to serve as a cornerstone publication of the IAITC program, and ICMB has sponsored not only the Corn Ag Mag, but also helped highlight conservation practices through Soil and Water Ag Mags, in addition to supporting topics on livestock and animal care.

"Our recently re-released Corn Ag Mag infuses technology and nutrient loss reduction strategies into the classroom," said Kevin Daugherty, director, IAITC. "The Ag Mag also includes the life of corn and corn usage in everyday items. It is linked to the Illinois Learning Standards and is perfect for teachers looking to include agriculture in their plans this fall."

"2017 marks 26 years of Illinois Corn Farmer support for IAITC," said Susan Moore, director, IAA Foundations. "We are beyond thankful for the support of farmers and commodity groups in Illinois. Through this generous contribution, Illinois corn farmers will see their dollars hard at work in classrooms across the state, including urban and rural areas. IAITC continues to be successful in making important connections between the farm fields and the classrooms of Illinois."

as Joliet residents, and noted this was, indeed, a special occasion.

“We have two U.S. congressmen here for an event on the East Side of Joliet. That doesn’t happen very often!”

Among the speakers at the dedication was U.S. Sen. Richard Durbin, D-Ill., who noted that even though homelessness among veterans is declining “tonight, 40,000 veterans will be homeless across America, 950 right here in the state of Illinois.”

Durbin said Hope Manor Joliet gives 67 veterans a chance to live their lives and raise their families with dignity.

U.S. Rep. Bill Foster, D-Naperville, said for those who serve their country in war, “there is a debt that we can never repay to those who risked everything to keep our country free. It is our solemn responsibility to do all that we can not only to support them as they serve, but to honor that service when they return home, and help them and their families as they return to our communities.”

Foster said he was proud to learn Will County became the 50th community in the nation to receive the designation of “Effectively Ending Veteran Homelessness” among Will County’s 40,000 veterans by reaching federal benchmarks courtesy of work by the Will County Continuum of Care and its partners. Hope Manor Joliet played a large role in that designation.

State Sen. Pat McGuire, D-Joliet, thanked the veterans for their service in protecting the American system of government. He said Hope Manor is perfectly named, “because as we heard from (Guinn), Hope Manor provides hope, respect and a better life for the people living here, and also, for the surrounding neighborhoods.

“Thank you (to VOA), for making my hometown a better place.”

Moyer said the Hope Manor families now will be able to improve not only their own lives, but the community around them, and maybe provide a spark of hope for the rest of the nation.

“As I think about all that’s going on in our country right now, isn’t it great to be standing in a moment and at a place, where we all Hope Manor Joliet began accepting homeless veterans and their families earlier this year. The City of Joliet rejected the plan several years ago, but partnerships were able to get the project done.

State Sen. Pat McGuire, D-Joliet and U.S. Sen. Richard Durbin, D-Ill., took time before the program to catch up on issues.

THEY’VE GOT NEW WHEELS

Winner of the pedal tractor at the Young Farmers booth in the Will County Farm Bureau’s Ag Adventure and petting zoo tent at the Will County Fair was Karen Goldrick of Manteno, pictured with her husband Tim. The pedal tractor was donated Prairie Creek Grain. All proceeds from the raffle are donated by the Young Farmers Committee to the Will County Farm Bureau Foundation for their 2017-2018 scholarship program.

Joliet Mayor Bob O’Dekirk addresses the crowd at an Aug. 25 dedication for Hope Manor Joliet. In the background is the former Silver Cross Hospital, which is expected to be razed next year for development. The existing veteran’s clinic and Aunt Martha’s will not be affected.

Patriotic music was performed by the Joliet American Legion Band.

agree on something,” Moyer said to applause from the crowd.

Guinn told the crowd she wished the city and Silver Cross officials wouldn’t tear down much of the former hospital. She said it could be used for a VA hospital so locals wouldn’t have to travel all the way to Hines.

In the meantime, though, she said she is grateful for her three-bedroom home, where she can knock on a neighbor’s door, and the two will sit out on one of the benches at 9 at night, talking until the kids rap on the window, telling her it’s late and time to come in.

“There are 67 families,” Guinn told the crowd. “It’s not just one little group. We are a family.”

• 100+ Women Who Care of Will County to Meet

The September meeting for 100+ Women Who Care of Will County will be held from 6 to 7 p.m. Sept. 12 at P.B. Mulligan’s Restaurant & Bar, inside Prairie Bluff Public Golf Club, 19433 Renwick Road, Crest Hill.

At each of the quarterly meetings members nominate charities, three are chosen at random, and after a brief presentation, the members vote on which charity to support. Once the winning charity is announced, everyone writes a $100 check, on the spot directly to that charity.

(Teams of two or four are welcome to join and share in the giving.)

All charities nominated must be located in, and serve, Will County and must have 501(c)(3) non-profit status.

With a big push to have new members join, we are hoping for over 50 women after this meeting. Check out our website: <http://www.100wwc-will.org> and like the Facebook page.

• Senior Services ‘Elegant Affair’

Senior Services of Will County’s senior social event of the season, “An Elegant Affair 2017,” is being held from 11:30 a.m. to 3 p.m. Sept. 13 at the Prairie Bluff Public Golf Course in Lockport.

This is a special event for seniors planned by seniors, and includes a delicious plated meal, dancing and door prizes. Tickets are $17 per person registered with payment by Sept. 5.

To register with payment, either phone Senior Services at 815-723-9713, or stop by their office, 251 N. Center St., Joliet.

• 11th Annual D202-area Resource Fair Sept. 13

More than 100 organizations will be on hand at the 11th annual Plainfield School District 202/Valley View School District 365U Community Resource Fair slated from 5 to 8 p.m. Wednesday, Sept. 13, at Plainfield East High School, 12001 S. Naperville Road, Plainfield.

Attendees coming from the west (Route 59) should take 119th street east to the school. Those coming from the east (Weber Road) should take Rodeo Drive west to the school.

It will feature everything from advice on senior care, drug addiction and financial issues to assistance with finding local food pantries, recreational activities and much more.

Various non-profit counseling agencies are scheduled to be at the fair including Joliet-based Stepping Stones, which operates one of the top substance abuse treatment programs in the state.

The LEAD (Linking Efforts Against Drugs) “Hidden in Plain Sight” mobile unit will be on hand courtesy of the Will County Sheriff’s Department.

Will County Senior Services will be among fair exhibitors, providing advice on how best to deal with aging parents.

Resource Fair attendees will also be able to pick up advice on obtaining mortgages, creating budgets, home and internet safety, how to help children learn, where to go for recreational activities and much more. Area colleges and trade schools will be on hand to elaborate on educational opportunities.

Fun activities at the fair will include a live Mariachi Band with student performers, therapy dogs courtesy of Will County State’s Attorney Jim Glasgow, free freshly-popped popcorn and raffles featuring gift cards from local businesses.

Spanish language interpreters will be available, while community members who are disabled will appreciate the fair’s well-spaced tables which will all be easily accessible. Members of the Plainfield East National Honor Society will provide child care.

More information is available by visiting <http://www.communityresourcefair.org/>.

• Will County Audubon Hosts

Milkweed, Monarch Program

The Will County Audubon Chapter will host an entertaining and informative program entitled “Milkweed and Monarchs” at 7 p.m. Sept. 14, at the Pilcher Park Nature Center, 2501 Highland Park Drive, Joliet.

There will be a social time at 6:30 p.m., and a business meeting at 6:45 p.m., followed by the program presented by Cathy DuBois, RN, retired.

The estimated population of Monarch butterflies has been in steady decline for the past 20 years. In this program, you will learn the various native milkweed plants in our area and how you can incorporate these and other native plants into your home landscape to improve vital habitat for Monarchs and other pollinators.

She will also describe, in pictures and words, the lifecycle of Monarchs as well as their incredible annual migration from the US and Canada to Mexico and back.

All Will County Audubon meetings and programs are free and open to the public.

• McDermed to Host Free Shred Event

All are invited to join Trinity Services, Inc. for its 28th Annual Dinner Dance and Auction at 5 p.m. Saturday, Sept. 16, at Odyssey Country Club, 19110 S. Ridgeland Ave., Tinley Park.

The theme of this year’s event is “Havana Nights,” and all proceeds will benefit Trinity Services in its mission to help people with disabilities and mental illness so that they may flourish and live full and abundant lives.

Guests will enjoy cocktails, fine dining, silent and live auctions, and live music by The Connexion Band, including oldies, pop, rock, R&B and more.

Mobile bidding will be available to all attendees for the silent auction, conveniently letting bidders know via a text message when someone has outbid them.

Auction items include something for everyone — a Microsoft Surface Pro 4, hotel and spa packages, an Amazon Echo, Philips Hue lighting, museum trips, concert tickets, Disney World tickets, wine tasting packages, home decor, jewelry, sports items and tickets, children’s toys, and more.

Tickets for the event are $100 each and can be purchased by visiting www.trinity-services.org.

• Presidential Medal of Freedom

Recipient Speaks Sept. 19 at Lewis

As part of the events for Latino Heritage Month, Lewis University will host Sylvia Mendez, an American civil rights activist from 12:30-1:45 p.m. Sept. 19 in the Student Union on Lewis' main campus on Route 53 in Romeoville. The event is free and open to the public.
Mendez played an instrumental role in the Mendez v. Westminster case, the landmark desegregation case. Mendez won the case and helped make California the first state in the nation to end school segregation. Seven years later, Mendez served as significant precedent for the NAACP in its U.S. Supreme Court school desegregation case Brown v. Board of Education. In 2011, President Barack Obama presented Sylvia Mendez with the Presidential Medal of Freedom, the nation's highest civilian honor.
The entire Lewis community celebrates Latino Heritage Month as a framework for understanding Latina/o history and culture and the contemporary triumphs and struggles of Latinos.
For more information, contact the Office of Multicultural Student Services at www.lewisu.edu/omss or call (815) 836-5538.

The Will County Farm Bureau Women for Family Farms Committee has effectively (on November 1, 2016) switched their fundraising efforts for the troops from the Phone Cards to Troops (PCFT) program to the Wreaths for the Abraham Lincoln National Cemetery (Wreaths for ALNC) program With so many of the troops being assigned government phones that have international capabilities on their phones, the committee has decided to keep their fundraising efforts local in the Will County community. They will be assisting Operation Care Package in their mission and effort to place a wreath on every veteran’s grave each December. The committee will now be focusing their fundraising efforts to purchase wreaths for the Abraham Lincoln National Cemetery. We will purchase and sponsor wreaths around November 1st of each year for the Christmas holiday season and assist in making sure that none of our veterans who are buried at the Abraham Lincoln National Cemetery are not forgotten but honored with a wreath on their graves at Christmas.

But we still cannot do that without your help and financial assistance. Wreaths are $15 each or 10 for $150. We will be collecting throughout the year for this program at the Will County Farm Bureau as well as fundraising throughout the year with our spring and fall flower programs.

For more information on this program, please call the Will County Farm Bureau at 815-727-4811 or make a cash donation directly to this wreath program at the Will County Farm Bureau, 100 Manhattan Road, Joliet, IL 60433. Stop by Monday-Friday and make your donation and/or mail in the donation to this address. Make checks payable to Will County Farm Bureau and in the memo section of your check, write in “Wreaths Across America Program”. Thank you and we hope that you continue to assist us in our fundraising efforts throughout the year.

Forest Preserve Hosts ‘Prairie Prowl’ in Lockport

The Forest Preserve District of Will County’s “Lockport Prairie Prowl” will takes place from 10-11:30 a.m. Saturday, Sept. 23, at Lockport Prairie Nature Preserve, located on Division Street, east of Route 53.

Before the settlers arrived, much of Illinois was covered with prairie. Most of the prairies were eventually plowed under for agricultural use. However, Lockport Prairie was spared due to its uniqueness. The preserve is made up of globally rare dolomite prairie and it is home to several rare plants and insects.

Join a naturalist for a guided walk through the prairie to explore this distinctive preserve. This 1-mile hike takes place outdoors on uneven, natural terrain. Restrooms facilities are not available. The free program is for all ages.

Register for the program by Sept. 21 at ReconnectWithNature.org or by calling 815-886-1467.

Forest Preserve Awarded $10,000 PetSafe Grant

PetSafe, a Knoxville, Tenn.-based pet products company, has awarded the Forest Preserve District a $10,000 grant to be used for Hammel Woods Dog Park improvements.

The grant is part of the company’s 2017 Bark for Your Park program, which awards funds to build, enhance or maintain off-leash dog parks around the country.

“We are very appreciative of this grant, and we applaud the company for its efforts to create pet-friendly communities,” said Ralph Schultz, the Forest Preserve’s chief operating officer.

The money will help pay for the Forest Preserve’s new 2.3-acre small-dog enclosure that will be built adjacent to the original 8.5-acre Hammel Woods Dog Park, which opened in 2002. The District also will add a shade shelter to the dog park and a drinking fountain will be installed in the preserve. The work is scheduled to begin in September.

PetSafe received 215 Bark for Your Park grant applications in 2017, and the Forest Preserve was one of only 25 award recipients announced this week. The company has helped fund 64 off-leash dog parks in 40 states since 2011.

Hike to View Animals, a Farmstead or Caterpillars at Forest Preserve Programs

NAPERVILLE - “Riverview Farmstead Tour,” 9-11 a.m. Saturday, Sept. 9, at the Forest Preserve District of Will County’s Riverview Farmstead Preserve, located on Book Road, south of Hassert Boulevard. Go inside the site’s 19th century buildings and explore the grounds of the preserve. Discover three generations of the Clow family, prominent settlers in Wheatland Township, as a naturalist shares stories of life in the 1800s and the growth of the farm. The free program is for all ages.

Register online by Sept. 7 at ReconnectWithNature.org or by calling 815-886-1467.

CHANNAHON - “Caterpillar Hike,” 6:30-8 p.m. Thursday, Sept. 14, at the Forest Preserve District of Will County’s Four Rivers Environmental Education Center, 25055 W. Walnut Lane, McKinley Woods. Take a close-up look at caterpillars and their life cycles and behaviors. The program includes a 1-mile hike to search for local caterpillars. The free program is for ages 5 and older; children must be accompanied by an adult. Register by Sept. 13 at ReconnectWithNature.org or by calling 815-722-9470.
